Goat rearing is a profitable self-employment with minimal labour capital. Providing the necessary feed for these goats at no cost will bring huge profits. In that way, you can also use protein-rich kiluvai, which can be easily grown according to the temperature of the place, leafy food like mulmurangai poovarasu and nongu kurumbai. Even waste obtained from the home garden can be provided as food. A year old goat will have kids three times in two years. That means one goat will give birth to six kids. So seven goats will produce approximately 42 kids .
